

1. The first part of the document is a letter from the President of the United States to the Congress, dated January 3, 1862. It is a message of condolence to the people of the State of California, who have recently suffered a great calamity in the form of a severe earthquake. The President expresses his sympathy for the victims and offers his prayers for their recovery. He also mentions that the President has received a report from the Secretary of the Interior, Mr. G. K. Warren, that the earthquake has caused a great deal of damage to the public buildings in San Francisco. The President expresses his regret that he cannot do more to help the people of California at this time, but he assures them that he will do everything in his power to assist them in their recovery.

2. The second part of the document is a report from the Secretary of the Interior, Mr. G. K. Warren, dated January 3, 1862. It is a report on the damage to the public buildings in San Francisco caused by the earthquake of January 9, 1862. The report states that the earthquake was a very severe one, and that it caused a great deal of damage to the public buildings in San Francisco. The report also mentions that the earthquake caused a great deal of damage to the private buildings in San Francisco, and that it caused a great deal of damage to the public buildings in other parts of the State of California. The report concludes by stating that the Secretary of the Interior has received a report from the President of the United States, dated January 3, 1862, expressing his sympathy for the victims of the earthquake and offering his prayers for their recovery.